Investment Strategy

The Global Fixed Income Strategy is meant to produce a steady near-term income stream through interest and dividends. Assets are invested in a global exchange-traded fund portfolio guided by a multi-factor regime model developed to participate in rising markets and provide downside protection in falling markets.

The Auour Regime Model

At the core of the Instinct Strategies is the Auour Regime Model (ARM), a multi-factor model that guides asset allocation to better align the portfolio for the current market environment.

- Fixed Income Credit Spreads
- Asset Pricing Dynamics
- Interaction of Global Markets
- Asset Class Valuations

An Investment Foundation

The Instinct Strategies provide a foundation for broad, diversified investment assets. The goal is to increase purchasing power by focusing on market participation, asset allocation, and expense reduction.
